DEFENSE INTELLIGENCE AGENCY
WASHINGTON, D. C. 20301

23 September 1974

MEMORANDUM TO: ALL DIA INTELLIGENCE SUMMARY CUSTOMERS

SUBJECT: DIA Current Intelligence Publications

1. The Defense Intelligence Agency will effect significant changes today in the manner in which it disseminates current intelligence. The changes are designed to improve the timeliness of our notification to senior decision makers of intelligence developments.

2. This is the last edition of the daily DIA Intelligence Summary (INTSUM) hard copy. Henceforth, developments of current intelligence interest will be disseminated throughout the day in as near real time as practicable as Defense Intelligence Notices (DINs). Those items which deserve immediate attention to support current decision making will be identified as Special DINs. All DINs will be hand delivered to principal Washington consumers under distinctive covers illustrating the urgency and classification of the individual item.

3. There will be parallel electrical (message) delivery of the DINs, particularly for consumers outside the Washington area. The electrical delivery of the Special DINs will be concurrent with hand delivery. The electrical delivery of the normal DINs will be accomplished by a minimum of twice daily compilations.

4. DIA will supplement this timely delivery of intelligence developments by increased use of our current Appraisals. As in the past, the Appraisals will contain in-depth analysis, reflect community-wide coordination and present greater graphics support than is possible in dissemination of the Notices. When an on-going development has unusual significance, the Appraisal will be noted as a Warning Appraisal. Like the Special Defense Intelligence Notice, these Warning Aparaisals should receive immediate attention.
